

NOTES ON FLORIDA'S ENDANGERED AND THREATENED PLANTS<sup>1</sup>

4th Edition, August 2003

Nancy C. Coile<sup>2</sup>

updated by Mark A. Garland<sup>3</sup>

The following tables were compiled to provide a convenient source of descriptions and other information on the endangered, threatened and commercially exploited plant species on Florida's 'Regulated Plant Index.'

The Regulated Plant Index is based on information provided by the Endangered Plant Advisory Council (EPAC), a group of seven individuals who represent academic, industry, and environmental interests (Dr. Loran C. Anderson, Mr. Charles D. Daniel III, Mr. David M. Drylie, Jr., Dr. Gerald F. Guala, Ms. Eve R. Hannahs, Mr. Richard L. Moyroud, and Dr. Daniel B. Ward).

Rule Chap. 5B-40, Florida Administrative Code, contains the 'Regulated Plant Index' (5B-40.0055) and defines the categories of regulated plants; lists instances where permits may be issued; and describes penalties for violations. Copies of the Rule may be obtained from <http://www.doacs.state.fl.us/~pi/5b-40.htm> or from the address in footnote 3 below.

Amended 14 February 2003, the 'Regulated Plant Index' contains 421 endangered species, 113 threatened species, and eight commercially exploited species.

Descriptions of these rare species are often difficult to locate. Florida does not have a single manual covering the flora of the entire state. Long and Lakela's manual (1971) focuses on the area south of Glades County; Clewell (1985) is a guide for the Panhandle; and Wunderlin (1998) is a guide for the entire state of Florida but lacks descriptions. Small (1933) is an excellent resource, but must be used with great care since the nomenclature is outdated and frequently disputed.

This publication contains five sections: endangered species, threatened species, commercially exploited species, family affiliation, and index to common names. In each section, a table provides five columns of information: scientific name, references, common names, family, and descriptions. Each table uses the same numbering sequence as that used by the 'Regulated Plant Index.'

Distribution maps (Wunderlin and Hansen, 2000) are available over the Internet from the University of South Florida Herbarium [<http://www.plantatlas.usf.edu/>]. These maps were invaluable for determining county distributions as was information from the Florida Natural Areas Inventory.

Many thanks are given to: Penny L. McCurry for help with publishing matters; Sharon E. Gatlin for help with the index; and especially to Richard E. Weaver, Jr., and Wayne N. Dixon for their helpful editing; all these people work for the Florida Department of Agriculture & Consumer Services' Division of Plant Industry.

Thanks are given to the following persons who provided information: Keith Bradley and George D. Gann, The Institute for Regional Conservation; Chuck McCartney, orchids; Gary D. Knight, Linda G. Chafin, Vicki Garland and Barbara Lenczewski, Florida Natural Areas Inventory; Roger L. Hammer, Metropolitan Dade County Park and Recreation Department, Natural Areas Management; Loran C. Anderson, Florida State University; Daniel F. Austin, Florida Atlantic University; David L. Martin, U. S.

Fish and Wildlife Service; Bruce D. Sutton, DPI, carnivorous plants; Kathy Craddock Burks, Department of Environmental Protection; Donald Drapalik, Georgia Southern University, angle-pods; John D. Tobe, Department of Environmental Protection, magnolias; Robert R. Haynes, University of Alabama, slender naiad.

Update: The Update, which immediately follows this Introduction, consists of a list of additions, deletions, and other changes to the endangered species list since the third edition of this publication in 2000.

Producing the update in this form costs less than a complete reprinting, but the changes to the list may be unclear. To clarify the changes, readers may wish to cut and paste the additions to the endangered species table in their appropriate places in the document. As another aid, the entire endangered species list is reproduced at the end of the Update.

In addition, a version of this publication with the changes incorporated into the body of the document is available in PDF format at <http://www.doacs.state.fl.us/~pi/>.

DESCRIPTION OF COLUMN CONTENTS

SCIENTIFIC NAME lists the species by the numerical order in which the species are listed in the ‘Regulated Plant Index.’ Author names are often abbreviated.

Bold type indicates that the species is on the federal list of endangered or threatened plants. The date of inclusion as a federally listed plant is provided immediately following the scientific name.

When there are illustrations in commonly available references a symbol (, or ) is placed in the lower left corner. Page numbers are given for Bell and Taylor (1982), Scurlock (1987), and Taylor (1992).

Photographs in the DPI poster and in Nelson (1994) are cited by plate number. There are no page numbers for Chafin (2000) or for Wunderlin and Hansen (2000). For additional photos, check the atlas website of Wunderlin and Hansen; many species will have photographs.

If the species is considered endemic to Florida (95% of all known occurrences are in Florida), then the term ‘endemic’ is given in the lower right corner. Distributions were compiled from Gleason and Cronquist (1991), Radford et al. (1968), Luer (1984), Correll and Correll (1978), and other sources.

REFERENCES provides the last name of the author(s) and then page(s) devoted to the species. When species are covered by Clewell (1985), Correll and Correll (1982), Long and Lakela (1972), Small (1934), Ward (1979), or Wunderlin (1998), those authors will be listed if applicable. Other references may also be listed. Complete reference citations are provided at the end of this publication.

If a reference has line drawings, the symbol , is shown. Small (1934) provides excellent illustrations, but these usually show only floral details. Other illustrations are often detailed and show plant habit as well as floral and fruit details. The symbol indicates that a photograph is present.

COMMON NAMES: these are names used in the vernacular. Sometimes the common name is descriptive and very useful. However, the common names are often confusing because the same name may be used for different taxa, or a species may have many different common names. This listing of common names is not meant to be exhaustive.

FAMILY is a group of similar genera. When two family names are acceptable (synonymous) according to the International Code of Botanical Nomenclature, both will be listed. There are eight families that have two acceptable names:

Palmae or Arecaceae;
Gramineae or Poaceae;
Cruciferae or Brassicaceae;
Leguminosae or Fabaceae;
Guttiferae or Clusiaceae;
Umbelliferae or Apiaceae;
Labiatae or Lamiaceae; and Compositae or Asteraceae.

Common names for the families usually follow Lawrence (1951). The division for Leguminosae into three subfamilies corresponds to Mabberley (1997). The tribes for the Compositae follow Cronquist (1980). Common names for pteridophyte families are found in several sources, including FNA.

DESCRIPTIONS provides characters which will help distinguish this species from similar species. The first category is type of plant ( tree, shrub, vine, annual herb or perennial herb). In succeeding order, characteristics are given for the following categories: stem, leaf, flower, fruit characters, habitat, locale, and time of bloom. Several abbreviations are used to save space:

lvs= leaves;
lflets= leaflets;
cpd= compound;
infl= inflorescence;
flrs= flowers;
frts= fruits;
cos.= counties.

The Florida Natural Areas Inventory (FNAI 1996) was used for habitat designations as were the referenced manuals and guides. Some of the habitats may sound esoteric, but are usually very appropriate. As an example, the “solution holes in rockland hammocks” mentioned in description of Anemia wrightii refer to dissolved areas in the limestone substrate of the rockland hammock habitat.

When a county is not listed by the Atlas, the county is shown within parentheses.
